LAW CLASSES WITHDRAW FROM JUNIOR PROGRAM

Vote Taken at Meeting December 3rd—Failure of President Taylor to be Given Privilege of Selecting Chairman, Brings Action—Score Politics

Following the failure of the Football Hop, the success of Junior Week has been threatened. Like a clap of thunder out of a clear sky comes the proclamation of the Junior Law Class, acting through their president, Leighton C. Taylor, that they have withdrawn from all participation in the University Junior Week, and that they intend to hold one of their own. This astounding action is the result of the failure of President Taylor to be elected to choose the chairman of the Junior Prom Committee, and was made public at a meeting of the class held on Monday, December 3rd.

The facts leading up to this drastic action, as recited to the class by their president, shows unmistakably his attitude toward steam-roller politics, University spirit, and such matters. President Taylor attended a meeting of the Junior Class Presidents from the different colleges, called to make plans for Junior Week, and elect the chairman of the different committees; he requested to be allowed to choose the chairman of the Junior Prom Committee, to which the other members agreed, if he would agree to swap votes with them, but when a vote was taken, according to President Taylor, "they double-crossed me, and steam-rolled someone else through." He also attended another meeting held shortly thereafter, and stated that he would accept the chairmanship of the Junior Week Committee, and the chairmanship of the Reception Committee, instead of chairman of the Junior Prom, but he was also denied this, and "seeing the cards were stacked" against him, he withdrew in the name of the entire Junior Law Class from any participation whatever in the University Junior Week.

Claims Injustice.

The president, in quite a brilliant speech, spoke of the injustice done the Law School by the attitude taken by the Columbian Collegeians. He said:

"University on the map." He claimed it was nothing short of criminal that conditions were such that a Law School man should be deprived of such a position of honor and distinction, in view of the fact that the Law School had never been accorded such an honor.

This speech was followed by the reading of a statement prepared by him, setting forth the views of the class on the matter, and what they intended to do about it. Upon a majority vote, this article was recommended for publication in the Hatchet. The article, as prepared by President Taylor, is as follows:

"Junior Law Class by Unanimous Vote Withdraws From Participation in Junior Week."

"At a recent meeting of the presidents of the Junior Classes of the several departments of the University, the Juniors of the Law School, acting through their president, Leighton C. Taylor, withdrew their support from this year's Junior Week Activities. This action had the unanimous support of the class, which is now going ahead enthusiastically with arrangements for the holding of its own Junior Prom and other Junior Week functions.

"This departure from the customs of former years was occasioned by the refusal of the other departments of the University to concede the right of the Law School to the chairmanship of the Junior Prom Committee, which chairmanship carries with it certain honor and distinction, and is considered the prize assignment of the committee chairmanships.

"It appears the Law School never has, in the history of the University, been awarded this particular place. The students of Columbia College seem to reserve this chairmanship to their own body by virtue of some divine right. They take the stand that since the Law School never has had the appointment, it never should have it. The lawyers, on the other hand, be-

GLEE CLUB PRACTICES

The University Glee Club held its weekly rehearsal on Thursday night at the Studio on G Street. There were many members present, and from indications the club will be a great success in its programs this year. Mr. Saunders, the new president of the club, is a man of action and is liked by all the members; under his guidance the club will accomplish much.

MUST REGISTER

All students expecting to graduate in February must file their applications in the registrar's office by February 1. Notices are now being sent out to those who have completed requirements, and are urged to attend to this immediately.

INTERFRAT CONFAB ATTENDED BY G. FLY

Represents G. W. at Annual Confab—Prominent Educators Speak on Vital Problems.

NEW YORK, N. Y. (Special to The Hatchet).—The fifteenth annual session of the Interfraternity Conference was held in New York City, November 30th, and December 1st. The conference is composed of men's general fraternities, which have been established 15 years or over, and which have at least ten active chapters. The number of member fraternities is at present 53. The purpose of this organization is the discussion of questions of mutual interest and the presenting to the fraternities represented of such recommendations as the conference shall deem wise, these recommendations being purely advisory.

The delegates to this conference are men chosen from the officers of each fraternity's national organization, or men who have graduated from college, but this year for the first time have undergraduate students been allowed to attend. The conference sent invitations to the local Interfraternity Councils of the different colleges and universities throughout the country, to send a delegate to the conference. The Interfraternity Association of George Washington University was quick to take advantage of this opportunity and honor, and sent Graham Fly to represent the University. Thirty-four colleges and universities, from New Hampshire to California, were represented by delegates.

Many prominent educators were present by special invitation at the conference, among whom were Dr. William H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University; Dean Thomas Arkel Clark, of the University of Illinois; Dr. Thomas W. Galloway, American Social Hygiene Association; Dean G. H. Goodnight, of the University of Wisconsin; and Prof. Alonzo H. Tuttle, University of Pennsylvania.

EDITOR OF "NEW AGE" SPEAKS IN ASSEMBLY

Reynold Blight, editor of "The New Age," addressed the students in assembly, Monday, December 3, on the subject of Accountancy. Mr. Blight, a certified public accountant as well as an editor, said that while accountancy is the oldest profession, as proven by stone records in the Nile Valleys, within the last five years progress has been made that all text books on the subject over five years old are obsolete.

He further stated that accountancy is no doubt a profession, as all the States in the Union have fixed standards to which all certified public accountants must conform.

It was further said that a mathematical mind alone was inadequate for the accountant, as present business methods are so complex that the task of the accountant corresponds to that of the military general who directs the activities of many troops. The accountancy profession needs men of wisdom and sound judgment. Mr. Blight contends; it contributes in large measure to the success of all civil and private enterprises, is not over-crowded and offers big rewards to its followers.

DANCE TO RADIO MUSIC

Engineering Society held a dance by radio from the music of the La Pardi Orchestra, Thursday, December 6, in the chapel. This is the first time that an organization in George Washington University has staged such an event. It was announced over the radio that the society was holding a dance by radio from the La Pardi music, and by request they were playing special selections for them.

CANDIDATES CALLED

Coach Daily desires a squad of at least forty out for basketball. Practice nights this week will be Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, at 7.30, and anyone who has ever seen a basketball is urged to come out.

INTEREST LACK CAUSES MEETING POSTPONEMENT

Because only two members were present the meeting of the Student Council for Tuesday, December 4, was not held.

It was expected that final arrangements for the then scheduled football hop would have been made.

LOCAL FRAT MAY UNITE IN LARGE NATIONAL BODY

Kappa Tau Omega Was Represented at Convention in New York December 1

The tentative organization of what may become a new national college fraternity, with chapters extending from New Hampshire to Iowa and Nebraska and with a membership at the outset of nearly 300 undergraduates, was formed by representatives of college locals at the National Interfraternity Conference, in New York City, December 1, 1923.

The representatives of the different organizations had no power to bind their respective locals, so their action was merely a suggestion. If sufficient locals ratify this suggestion within six months, there will be created a new national fraternity.

Chapters of the interested locals are located at Penn State, Illinois, Iowa State College, George Washington, Bucknell, New Hampshire, Stevens Poly, Worcester Poly, Davidson, Temple University, Nebraska Wesleyan, Rollins (Florida), and University of Chattanooga.

Rules for membership include that the organization be in good financial standing, must possess or lease its own chapter house, must have two years' standing as a college fraternal body at an institution of learning at which at least five recognized national fraternities are located.

All the fraternities represented, either own or lease chapter house. Some of them are over fifteen years' standing and have a large alumni membership.

George Washington University's local fraternity, was represented at the meeting held in New York and now contemplates affiliating with the other organizations represented, to form the new national fraternity.

WILLARD CARLSON GIVEN ACACIA SCHOLARSHIP CUP

The Scholarship Cup of the local Chapter of Acacia for the year 1922-23 has been awarded to Willard Carlson, who completed 15 hours with the grade of A, 10 hours with the grade B, and 3 hours with the grade of C. Hugo A. Kemman, who completed 21 hours with the grade of A, 9 hours with the grade of B, and 9 hours with the grade of C, came second. Prof. Updegraff, Prof. Lapham, R. W. Scharfenberg, and A. H. Kampe were the members of the committee on scholarship awards. Only letter grades were used because certain departments of the University do not grade with numerals. The Cup was originally presented to the George Washington Chapter by the Columbia University Chapter at the former Chapter's installation here last April.

FOOTBALL HOP POSTPONED

Owing to the lack of student cooperation, interest, and proper support of the fourth annual Football Hop, set for Friday, December 7, at Rauscher's, President Lewis and other administrative officials deemed it advisable to postpone the affair to a later date.

The football hop will probably be postponed to some time shortly after the Christmas recess. As yet no definite date has been decided upon.

Official confirmation of the postponement of the hop occurred shortly after 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At 10 o'clock the next morning the Extra Hatchet, carrying the fact that the affair had been postponed, appeared at the University. This is considered an unusual record considering that it was set up and printed in less than two hours, as the print shop did not open until 8 o'clock Thursday morning.

G. W. CLUB TO MEET

The next regular meeting of the G. W. Club will be held Wednesday, December 12, in Room 23, Lisner Hall, at 8.15 p. m. All letter men are urged to join.

Pyramid Discusses Activities

Recommendations for the reorganization of student activities were discussed at the meeting of Pyramid Honor Society, December 9, but will not be made public until later.

KEEN RIVALRY EXISTS FOR COURT POSITIONS

Several Men Back from Last Year—Many New Men With Promise Report—Outlook Bright

A bitter contest for positions on this year's George Washington University basketball quint is assured, and the outlook for a successful court season is very promising. At present there are about twenty-five men out for the team all of whom show promise. Among those who played last year on the varsity are Captain Gude Gosnell, Otto Klopach, Francis Brown, and Babe Hyde. Besides there are a number of last year's Freshmen team who have to be considered; Vernon Brown, Goldberg, Randolph, and Woerner all are excellent basketball players.

Among the newcomers to the local squad are Earl Chesney, who played two years ago; Mike Dowd, from the football squad; Brumbaugh, and a number of others who show real promise.

G. W. has planned a very attractive schedule in which a number of excellent home games feature. The only trips which the team will take this year are one to Newark, Del., and one to Richmond, Va., and, of course, one to Brookland, one to College Park, and one to the Hilltop.

John Daily, coach, while making no pre-season boasts expects to put on one of the best Hatchette teams in many years on the floor. Gude Gosnell also considers the local outlook very bright. The George Washington court seasons opens against the City Club five on their court, January 3, and between now and then a fierce battle for places on the quint will be waged.

KAPPA BETA PI GIVES TEA TO MISS SAMUELS

Premiere Danseuse of Ballet Company Honored by Local Sorority at the New Willard

Kappa Beta Pi, legal sorority, gave a tea Friday afternoon, November 30, at the New Willard Hotel, in honor of Miss Helene Samuels, premiere danseuse of the Pavlov-Oukrainsky Ballet, which appeared in Washington with the San Carlo Grand Opera Company during the week of November 25th.

The sorority has completed plans for the celebration of its fifteenth anniversary by holding a Founders' Day dance at the Arlington Hotel on Saturday, December 15th, at nine o'clock. A limited number of tickets for this dance are now on sale at $3 a couple, and may be obtained at the Law School from any member of the sorority.

This organization, which is the oldest legal sorority in existence and is composed of twenty-six chapters throughout the country, will hold its annual convention in Washington next fall, at which many prominent women attorneys, as well as many women law students hopeful of future greatness are expected to be present.

JOURNALISM CLASS SEES SUN PLANT AT BALTIMORE

"Seeing the Sun," was the object of the W. N. Morse's journalism class at George Washington University when it made a trip to Baltimore, December 8, to visit the office of the Sun papers. H. E. Warner, of the office staff, conducted the class through the various departments, explaining in an interesting manner the method of printing and getting out a newspaper from the actual gathering of news to the delivering of papers.

The Sun Building today stands in the exact geographical center of the city, and its entrance is never closed. Here the Morning, Evening, and Sunday papers are published. The office uses eighty-five thousand tons of paper a day, and has a circulation of two hundred and forty thousand copies.

VISIT UNIV. OF VIRGINIA

Howard L. Hodgkins, Dean of Arts and Sciences, H. C. McNeil, professor of Chemistry, and the architect for the new building, visited the University of Virginia, Friday, December 7, in order to obtain some ideas for the chemical laboratories, which are to be in the proposed building.

HATCHET MEETING CALL

An important meeting of the Hatchet Staff will be held at 728 Twentieth Street, at 8 o'clock Tuesday, December 11.

NAMES THREE HATCHETITES ON ALL-DISTRICT TEAM

Captain Jimmy Ptak, Frank Clements, and Guy Hottel Chosen for Mythical Eleven

Three men from George Washington University's football squad were placed on a mythical All-District eleven, chosen by Arthur Knapp in the Washington Post. Captain Jimmy Ptak, Francis Clements, and Guy Hottel were picked as the best men in their position from the four District colleges. All three are veterans of at least two campaigns. Ptak has played for three seasons. Jimmy is easily the best local with the possible exception of Paul Florence, of G. U., who, however, was out of the game this year with injuries. Jim's ability at snaring the leather on a forward pass is uncanny and his tackling deadly.

Frank Clements, coming from Central High, where he was a real star, has developed into a great football player. Last year he was handicapped by injuries, but this season Clements has done more than his share of the work.

Last year Guy Hottel was the greenest of a green squad of line men, but has become one of the most aggressive rushmen in the District. He is bulky enough to withstand the most vigorous attack, and time after time Guy pulled down enemy backs behind their line of skirmish.

Georgetown was given five places on the mythical eleven, C. U. got two men on the team, and Gallaudet was given the other position.

ANNOUNCE CHAPEL PLANS

Plans for chapels up to the Christmas vacation have been completed, and include many projects of interest to the student body.

To-morrow Dr. Mitchell Carroll, of the faculty, will give an illustrated lecture on "Karnak—the Resurrection of King Tutankamen." The vocational guidance addresses which have been for some weeks the chief attraction of the Monday chapels, will be continued on the 17th. A Christmas program to be held on Wednesday, December 21st, will complete the list until new year.

MANY G. W. FRATS HOLD DANCES AT THANKSGIVING

Most of the fraternities at the University celebrated the Thanksgiving recess by dances. The first of the period were formal dances by Sigma Chi and Sigma Phi Epsilon, Wednesday night. The Sigma Chi annual, held at the Arlington, was a delightful affair, and a capacity crowd was present.

The Sigma Phi Epsilon dance was held at the house. Forty-five couples attended, and other fraternities were represented.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon held a formal dance at their house Thanksgiving night, and a delegate from each fraternity at the University was present.

Sigma Nu held an informal dance Friday night, with about thirty-five couples present.

Phi Sigma Kappa held a formal dance at their house.

Committee to Plan Endowment

Plans for the student endowment drive will be made at a meeting to be held Friday, December 21, in Lisner Hall, according to Henry James, chairman of the student committee.

Honor Society Elects Advisor

Henry Grattan Doyle, professor of Spanish, was elected advisor of Pi Delta Epsilon at its meeting, Thursday, December 6. Daniel C. Chace, professor of journalism, was named associate advisor.

A GREAT NEED

The 26-0 trouncing administered by Catholic University team clearly shows that a new system controlling athletics is needed in order to make the slogan, "a Greater George Washington University" a reality. It is a well established fact that the success of athletic teams has much to do with the reputation of a college and the upbuilding of the morale and the spirit of its student body.

Searching into the facts, one finds that the present coach, with personality, ability, and knowledge of the game, has been hampered and handicapped by a gross lack of material. At no time during William Quigley's period of coaching has he had more than 25 men on the field, and many an afternoon's practice has been attended by a mere handful of 10 or 15 men. Any one with the most casual knowledge of the game can appreciate that a team—a winning team—can not be developed with so few men available.

Much credit is due to the few loyal men who have come out to practice under such discouraging conditions. Just a few examples of the conditions that the men and coaches have labored under will suffice; inconveniently located dressing quarters, small number of candidates, lack of hours for practice, and last but not least, the cold indifference of the rest of the student body.

This is not an alibi for either the coaches or the men. They are not the kind to want alibis.

The only way to get the additional material to build up a winning aggregation is by offering athletic scholarships. Other universities are doing it and finding it profitable in more ways than one.

George Washington University must do it or stay out of athletics altogether. Better to give up the benefits of wholesome intercollegiate sports and the resulting advertisement and increased morale among the student body that comes to the University from such events than have a team which suffers defeat after defeat and the consequential unfavorable advertisement and lowering of student morale.

The latter step the University does not want to, and should not take, thus leaving one thing open, that of building up the team by offering athletic scholarships.

Of course, this will mean an increased expense. This, however, can be met by a compulsory athletic fee collected from the students of the University. In this way enough money could be raised to give athletics, football in particular, a fair chance at G. W., which manifestly has not been the case up to the present.

The students paying the fee would have value received in benefiting from the increased reputation of their University; admission to games and then with the additional funds, gyms and athletic fields would be provided for class and intramural sports, which would give the benefit of athletic training to the mass rather than a limited number of students. The beneficial result that the greater mass of students would receive from intramural sports would alone justify the assessment of a compulsory athletic fee.

Compulsory athletic fee must come before a Greater George Washington University will be a reality.

PLAY FAIR

Conduct of a few students at some recent parties has come in for attack from administrative officials. The action of this minority has brought the name of the University in bad repute.

It matters not what the individual thinks about the drinking question when it comes to University functions, but it becomes a question of playing the game fair.

When the few, getting their momentary joy out of the bottle that cheers, cast undue and unfair reflections on the much larger majority, the question naturally arises, is it fair? Is it fair that the undiscriminating public should think that because a few indulge their selfish pleasure, that all of the rest do likewise and the University as a whole sanctions such things?

It manifestly is not fair, and the administrative officials intend to and should break up such practices.

Are you playing the game for yourself or for the University?

PROM VS. LAW

"We come to bury Caesar, not to praise him."

And Caesar in the form of the Junior Prom was given the same reception by the Junior Law Class—take note Mark.

Indignant to the point of radicalism because they were not voted the privilege of selecting the chairman of the Junior Prom the class has rebelled. Tossed away that dignity so expectant of aspirant lawyers and have openly and publicly denounced their participation in the program. Powerful enough to break the thing they believe and they intend to do it by staging a Junior Law Prom of their own, all because they believed the other colleges were greedy, politics was bad, and appointments to these different positions were made by "steam roller" methods.

A regrettable instance, if true, that those in other colleges should find it necessary to fix these elections, however, it certainly does not justify such drastic action as was taken by the Junior Law President and his followers. It is expected of University students that they have laid away their childish idea—"if I can't play general, I won't play soldiers." There is nothing to be gained by this method—it is all loss.

If the Law Juniors insist upon the program outlined to them by their leader, it will but tend to draw them away from the other colleges in the University and create an animosity among the students that many future years might never heal.

There is a duty to be performed, and that duty is not to solicit glory and honor for one college alone, or one person in that college, but glory and honor for the University.

The withdrawal by law juniors must not meet the approval of the entire class, only those among them who feel themselves to be individually in danger of the loss of prestige and personal glory.

Then they try to prove the thing was not straight. Let those among that class who are raising this question of bad politics and discussing the matter so earnestly remember how their own officers were chosen—how a great many things in law school and other colleges go over.

It all comes to one, and only one, conclusion—if the game can't be played straight, then those that get crushed should not cry. They lost at their own game.

If there is to be two separate and distinct proms in the University, let those who are fostering such a program come together and agree, that one will not in any way impose upon the other.

This Junior Prom must be a success. It has been a success in the past years and it must be one this year.

The duty of the officers of every class is to seek the cooperation of their organizations in the forwarding of this program and suppress any movement that would make their classmates followers of a party to hinder or obstruct the successful promotion of George Washington University's greatest social function.

LEECHY CONVALESCING

are the best dressed men in America," says a fashion writer. And there is no mysticism as to how this is accomplished.

For more than 35 years, through the ever changing vagaries of style, college men have worn a type of suit expressive of conservative good taste.

While clothes makers fluttered from style to style, these men clung faithfully to their ideal, at times going far to procure it.

But today, in Famous DUNSHIRE Clothing this identical style is being offered to you here in your own college shop. You'll recognize instantly those artful touches which have lifted these suits from the realms of the commonplace to the circle of the "accepted".

AMENDS CONSTITUTION
The constitution of the General Engineering Society was recently amended to permit the Chemical Engineering group, an organization of that society, to have a vice president.
This amendment puts Chemical Engineering on the same basis as the other groups of the society.
Nomination and election of the officer who is to fill this position will occur at the next regular meeting of the society. Everybody in Chemical Engineering should come out.

CALENDARS ON SALE
George Washington University calendars for 1924, containing pictures of the athletic teams and inauguration events, have been received and will be sold at the office of the Law and Medical Schools, treasurer's office, and the office of the Director of Student Activities, 728 Twentieth Street.
Twelve handsome pictures and an attractive leather binding, with the official G. W. seal embossed on the cover, makes the calendar a pleasing as well as a practical Christmas gift. They sell for one dollar.

Talk silently and let your voice be quieted. Henry wants to join the "hole in one" club.

FIFTY CANDIDATES REPORT
An extensive program containing games with some of the strongest girls' team in the East is in the process of completion, according to Marguerite Daly, manager of girls' basketball. The plans for the year include a northern trip, with games with Swarthmore, Temple University, and Pennsylvania, and a trip to the South to meet Richmond and William and Mary. The usual city games with Wilson Normal and Gallaudet will also be played.
The season for basketball was officially opened last Tuesday evening when about fifty candidates reported at the Central High School gym for the first training period. The big gym at the Mount Pleasant school has been secured regularly for Tuesdays and Thursdays at half-past seven, and it is expected that an increasing number of players will report as candidates.

KAPPA DELTA FRATERNITY
OFFERS SCHOLARSHIP CUP
Kappa Delta Fraternity, to stimulate the interest of the students in attaining creditable scholarship, offers a silver loving cup to that girl of the Freshman Class, registered for a degree in one of the Departments of Arts and Sciences, who makes the highest average during her first year of not less than twenty-four semester hours of work.
The loving cup will be engraved with the name of the student receiving it, the University, and the year in which it is won. It will be presented to the successful girl by the Dean of Women.
This prize will be offered each year, commencing with the present scholastic year, 1923-1924.

PHARMACY AND GRADUATE
SCHOOLS UNREPRESENTED
The Graduate and Pharmacy Schools have no representatives in Student Council because there have been no candidates for the position. Each of these schools is entitled to one representative, and anyone interested in becoming a candidate from either school is asked to file his or her petition with the Student Council. The date for the election will then be announced.

MECHANICAL ENG. ORGANIZE
A meeting of the Mechanical Engineers was held on December 5 for the purpose of petitioning the American Society of Mechanical Engineers for a charter to install a student branch of that society at George Washington University.
An organization was created to handle the details connected with the project, and the following officers were elected: Gilbert K. Ludwig, president; W. H. Seaquist, vice president; Walter B. Lawrence, secretary; and C. Robert Seckinger, treasurer.
Any student of Mechanical Engineering who desires to become a member, or is interested in the plans of this organization, is requested to see or write any of the above-mentioned officers for details, as the cooperation of the students of this department is necessary to order to establish a branch of the A. S. M. E. at the University.

ANNOUNCES G. W.
TENNIS SCHEDULE
With the return to the University of most of last year's tennis team, and games scheduled with some of the best tennis teams in the East, the prospects of George Washington's 1924 tennis season are unusually bright. Van Ende, Klopsch, Ladd, Aten, and Rutley, all G. W. letter men, are back this year. These, together with those that have shown up well in the fall tournament, will form a good squad to pick a team. Those interested in coming out for the team should get in touch with Manager Harold Young, 1313 Columbia Road, N. W.
The following schedule is not complete, and many good teams will be added before the season opens:
April 5, Catholic University (pending).
April 10, University of Virginia (at home).
April 12, Maryland University (at home).
April 18, Johns Hopkins (pending).
April 25, Swarthmore (at home).
April 30, Princeton (at Princeton).
May 1, Swarthmore (at Swarthmore).
May 2, Lehigh University (at Bethlehem).
May 3 (Open).
May 5, Rutgers College (pending).
May 6, Stevens Institute (at Hoboken).
May 7, Army (at West Point).
May 14, Navy (at Annapolis).
May 15, Talbert Country Club (at Easton).

BEATRICE CLEPHANE IS
HEAD OF LAW SENATE
At the November meeting of the Law School Senate, the following officers were elected: Beatrice Clephane, president; Harry Friedman, vice president; Hazel Newton, secretary-treasurer.
The Senate has already begun to plan for the annual Law School banquet, and would be glad to receive any suggestions which members of the University may have to make regarding it.

LAW SENIORS APPOINT CLASS COMMITTEES

At the last meeting of the Senior Law Class two committees were appointed on class dues and class picture.

The committee on class dues, of which Howard Shaw is the chairman, is quite a large one, but it is believed that the large committee will greatly facilitate the collection of class dues.

Arthur Perry was appointed chairman of the committee on the class picture. The graduating class last year did not leave a picture, but both President Kemman and the members of the committee are anxious to have this year's class leave one.

FENCING TEAM PRACTICES

Fencing practice for girls began last week and will continue regularly on Tuesdays and Thursdays for the rest of the year. About fifteen girls have begun practice and are training for the exhibition which will form the climax of the year's work. More girls are wanted, both experienced and inexperienced, and are asked to see Phoebe Knappen or attend one of the meetings.

LAW CLASSES WITHDRAW FROM JUNIOR PROGRAM

Have that when the wheel goes round they should draw the lucky paddle at least once in a decade, and thus have an opportunity of conferring upon one of their own number this much-coveted honor; that they should receive this recognition in return for the considerable support afforded by the Law School to the University, both financially and along lines which bring to it intellectual laurels.

The latter is evidenced by the result of the George Washington-Oxford debate. Upon that occasion the Law School won for George Washington an honor never equaled in its history, nor even hoped for by its most enthusiastic adherents.

"The students of the Law School declare they are not lacking in all that goes for real school spirit—in fact, the school abounds with it, but it can not, in justice to itself, continue to play a game in which the cards are stacked against it with each recurring Junior Week. That old saw, The Worm Will Turn, tells the whole story. The time has come for the Junior Law Class to turn about and face its own Junior Week, which it is proceeding to do with an enthusiasm never before seen in the history of the school."

After the reading and approval of the article for the Hatchet, President Leighton C. Taylor asked for the opinion of the assemblage on the questions involved.

On being recognized, A. H. Moran indignantly denounced the unfair attitude taken by Columbian College in keeping this most coveted position for themselves. "Columbian College seems to hold this office by some divine right, but we think that we should have it by the law of averages, once in at least ten or twenty years," Mr. Moran emphatically proclaimed.

C. Melville Walker and several others, perhaps looking to the future more than their classmates, attempted to offset the coming tragedy by trying to show the gathering the folly of such an undertaking, but met with complete failure. President Taylor at this time stated that the Law School was separated from the rest of the University, and when asked by one of the minority group, "Are we not a part of the University?" he replied: "We could be in Baltimore as far as I'm concerned."

Calla Others Greedy.

Edward Brooker encouragingly announced that this contemplated action had received the support of students in other classes in the Law School. "Columbian College students are greedy," he venemously asserted, "and I believe like Mr. Moran, that by the law of proportions we are entitled to it."

S. Hazen Bond, 3rd, then delivered a thrilling oration, in which comparison, in order to show that the Law School had not lacked school spirit, but cooperation, he pointed out that "Georgetown Law School puts on three proms each year—there is certainly no reason why we can't put on one." His earnest plea was met with great applause from both the audience and President Leighton C. Taylor.

So enthusiastic was President Taylor that the little party would be a big success, that he offered his services to do what he could, and also said he would toss in $25.00 for a starter.

The meeting was then adjourned, and the officers began discussing the stupendous task of forming plans and appointing suitable committees in order to make the Junior Law Prom the gala event of the school year.

INTERFRAT CONFAB ATTENDED BY G. FLY

A more noteworthy fact, though, and one which should make both the University and the local chapter of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity proud, is that Mr. A. Bruce Bielaski, who graduated from George Washington in 1904, has been made chairman of the Interfraternity Conference for the coming year. Mr. Bielaski held the position of secretary of the organization last year.

Several speakers at the conference stressed the point that men in one fraternity do not know enough men in the other fraternities having chapters in their college, that they do not seem inclined to mix with the other fraternity men, but confine themselves to the men of their own chapter. The several fraternities should be competitive in sports, scholarship, rushing, etc., but that in social life the several fraternities should be taken as a fraternity system, and function as such.

One of the George Washington men said: "Even though the conditions at George Washington are such that the majority of men are kept pretty busy, it is felt that there should be more visiting between fraternity houses than has been done in the past few years. If this idea were followed, we would learn more of the Greek Letter Fraternity System as a whole, more about each of the fraternities maintaining chapters at G. W., and at the same time broaden our acquaintances among the men who go to make up the personnel of George Washington University."
